BUTTE CURRENT NOTES.

Dr. A. H. Mitchell of Deer Lodge was in the city yesterday.

The "Ivy Leaf" opens to-night at Maguire's opera house.

Mrs. Minnie West is visiting her daughter, who attends the academy at Helena, for a few days.

Twelve bars of Butte & Boston bullion, weighing 1,225 pounds, were forwarded by the American Express company yesterday.

The high school formal will meet at the high school at 9 o'clock this morning to attend the funeral of the late Edward Wilard.

Ben Stern, manager of Agnes Huntington, is in this city. She will appear in Butte beginning the week from to-night, and will appear in "Paul Jones" and "Captain Thacker."

George W. Brown, formerly manager of the clothing department of Estes & Connell Mercantile company at Anaconda, has accepted a position with the M. J. Connell company of Butte.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Samaria N. Sprague took place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from her late residence, No. 101, Oklahoma street. It was attended by the members of Victoria lodge No. 332, Sons of St. George.

Captain Shepherd has commissioned an unknown man to act as colonel of the "horrible invincibles," who will play a prominent part in the coming Fourth of July parade. The colonel's name will not be made public until the morning of the Fourth.

Montanians at the McDermott: John McKelvey, Bozeman; Phil M. Saunders and wife, Phillipsburg; L. C. Stebbins, Helena; Henry J. Burleigh, A. S. Rife, Dillon; F. George Heide, Great Falls; A. C. Quantz, Great Falls; R. W. Walsh, Anaconda; J. F. Faulkner, Helena.

James Penrose, who died at Meaderville of Friday from a gripe, was buried from the Foresters' hall in Meaderville at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of Court Friedel Meaderville. Penrose was also a member of the Miners' union and Old Fellows.

The funeral of Michael McGrath, who was killed in the Modron mine last week, will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, No. 712 North Montana. The remains will be taken to St. Patrick's church, where services will be conducted by Rev. Father Van de Ven.

Manager A. L. Dowler of the Comique, feels that a recent interview published in the STANDARD in which Fred Ritchie was mentioned as manager of the house, has done him an injustice. Mr. Dowler wishes it understood that he is the sole manager of the Comique and that Mr. Ritchie has nothing whatever to do with it. Mr. Dowler says that he is doing everything in his power to elevate the standing of the Comique and is meeting with gratifying success.

ALIVE UNDER THE DEBRIS

Food and Drink Supplied to One of the Miners Through Hose.

AFTER THE GREAT ACCIDENT

Mr. Daly Requests that the Miners' Union Make an Investigation—The Number of Dead Still Unknown.

BUTTE, May 15.—The flag over the Anaconda hoisting works was at half mast this morning, and all work is suspended while the work of rescue is being prosecuted. Men never worked harder than have the miners who are trying to remove the awful heap of rock and dirt and timbers. But if any incentive could have aroused more eager work it was when it was discovered this morning that one of the imprisoned men at least was still alive. The report as usually grew until it was claimed that three men instead of one were alive, but this report was denied and is attributed to the fact that the one man, made a good deal of noise and was heard in various directions. All efforts are now directed toward releasing the imprisoned man, and no other dead bodies were uncovered during the day.

During the forenoon the rescuers got so near to their old comrade that they could talk to him. He was quite talkative, but when first heard he was merely making appeals for help, and for the rescuers to hurry up. When the rescuers were near enough to talk with him, they asked him, "Are you getting on?" "I am very thirsty," he said, "and my legs pinch." Afterward he said that he slept well last night under the circumstances, and seemed quite cheerful when he heard the men working within a few feet of him.

"Are there any in there with you?" he was asked.

"Nobody alive," was the answer. He was then understood to say that he was lying with a dead body on him. But that there was a network of timbers all around him and over him and seemed to have left just a few feet of space above his body. All day long the miners worked like troia to get the comrade out. But it was slow work. If it had been merely the work of reaching him, that might have been accomplished in a few hours, but the work had to be pursued with the greatest care in order to release the man, who would crush him. There was also danger of tumbling the big pile down on the rescuers. The imprisoned man is believed to be Frank Agazza, the Italian. He complained so frequently of hunger and thirst that when it was found it would require hours yet to get him out. Efforts were directed toward getting some food and drink into him. A hole was bored through several timbers reaching the little cavity where the Italian lay. A hose was run down through the hole, the other end of which the Italian appropriated, and plenty of drink and food was forwarded to him. That was at 3 o'clock this afternoon, after just 24 hours' imprisonment.

This evening it was considered impossible to reach Agazza before morning. The hole that had been bored to him was enlarged so that solid food could be passed in to him, as well as the water and soup through the hose. He could also be seen by the rescuers. Only a very few men at a time could get to the place where it is necessary for effective work to be done, and this will make the rescue of Agazza a matter of many hours yet. He is cheerful and says he is in no danger.

Marcus Daly arrived from Anaconda early this morning and spent the day at the mine. "It is my earnest desire and request," said he, "that a committee be appointed by the president of the Miners' union to investigate the accident, and not only the accident but the condition of the mine generally. I have heard of malicious reports to the effect that the mine had been worked hastily and carelessly in order to get out enough ore to run the smelters at Anaconda. The fact is that we can break up in the mines three times as much ore as can be hoisted. But I want practical miners to look over the matter and investigate the mine thoroughly from top to bottom. I earnestly hope the president of the Miners' union will accept this invitation, appoint six competent men and come himself, together with the mining inspector. I know that there is not a mine in Montana that in this particular place there is nothing which ingenuity could devise that could be done to render the spot more secure. It was not possible to timber it any more. I know that, and so do the men who were there. But I want the public to know it. I want the community to be satisfied that the mine is not handled carelessly, that it is not treacherous. Many in this community have relatives and friends who work daily in the Anaconda mine, and I want them to feel satisfied that nothing is left undone in this mine which can render it more safe. I would ask the committee, after making the examination, to go before the jury and tell honestly what their judgment is. If the company or the company's management has been careless or negligent in the slightest particular, let us severely censured."

"Between 1,000 and 1,500 men are regularly employed in the mines of the Anaconda company in this city, and the community has a right to know that the mines of the company are as safe as mines can be. I am willing to make any bet that I can sleep on any slope of the Anaconda mine to-night, for I know that everything which human foresight can do is always done to prevent accident. No man is more grieved than I am by the terrible disaster. No man can be more grieved. I feel that it is a good man to the community, due to the relatives and friends of the employees and due to the company that an investigation be made that will be most rigid. I only wish that every practical miner in Montana could go down into the Anaconda mine to-morrow and see for himself its condition."

Coroner Muldon will start the inquest at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and will make the investigation a most thorough one. The jury which has been empowered is as follows: Thomas Dineen, John McCormick, Eugene Sullivan, Patrick Conley, Marco Medin and George Lapp.

Mining Inspector Hogan is absent in a distant part of the state. Deputy Mining Inspector Oliver visited the scene of the accident soon after it happened, and examined it again this afternoon. He was accompanied by Foreman Jack O'Neill and Superintendent K. M. L. Oliver will give the results of his investigation at the inquest to-morrow. He says the damage to the mine amounts to not more than a few hundred dollars. The cave is confined to two floors of the 500-foot level, and these two floors are shut off. The pile of rock, timber and earth is about 16 feet in height, and rises to an arch.

According to the testimony of men at the scene of the accident there was an unusually heavy blast, during which the miners left the vicinity. They waited four or five minutes for the smoke to clear away, and most of them went back. Messrs. Holland and Riley did not go back quite as soon, one of them remarking that the smoke was not yet entirely cleared away, and the other going for tools. Just as the main gang reached the scene of the blast the fall came.

No additional bodies were taken out to-day, and the exact number of those killed is not known. It is said that one or two of those published this morning in the list of the missing and probably dead were not working on that floor at all. This being the case, the number of the dead is likely to be reduced. Agents of the company have been around to all the boarding houses this afternoon and evening in an effort to ascertain if any boarders are missing. The difficulty is that many miners room by themselves or with one partner in cabins. The roll will be called to-morrow morning when all employees at the Anaconda mine will be counted. It will then be possible to make up a definite list of the dead and injured, and this will be published together with all information obtainable as to their places of residence, the home of their friends, the length of time they had worked in the Anaconda mine, etc. The result of the roll may reduce the number supposed to be dead, and may possibly increase it.

The four injured men at the hospital were all doing well to-day, and Dr. Hough was confident that they would all recover. Robert Works is doing finely, and his leg and arm are not broken after all, as was feared. They are badly swollen from the pressure that resulted from the fall, but all, P. J. Murphy, who had his left hand crushed, is doing well. Dr. Hough is making strong efforts to save his hand. Brown and Laughlin are also doing well and there is little doubt that they will recover.

Fully 7,500 people visited Sherman's undertaking rooms to-day to view the bodies. There was a constant stream of people. Telegrams have been sent to the relatives of William Clark at Lake Mines, Mich., but no reply has yet been received. He was a single man. Many telegrams have been sent to the relatives of John Smith in Nebraska, but no answer has been received. He was a single man. Seward Stewart had relatives at Mitchell, South Dakota, and his partner, Pat Hurley, sent a telegram to them, but received no reply. A telegram was also sent to the sister of John Nordstrom, who lives at Helena, but no reply has been received. A reply was furnished in this case either. If no replies to the telegrams are received to-morrow the men will all be buried in this city on Tuesday. Stewart is said to have a mother living at Plum Creek, Neb. Stewart is her son by her first husband, and so her name is not known. No letters can be found to indicate her name and address, and it has not been possible to communicate with her.

FROM POCATELLO.

Water for the City Contracted For—Said to Have Left Town.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

POCATELLO, May 14.—One of the most important transactions that ever took place for this town was the letting of a contract yesterday by the Pocatello Water Company for the construction of 28,000 feet of flume, which is to tap a creek known as "Gibson Jack," five miles above here, and convey water to a reservoir one mile above town, for the purpose of supplying the city with a complete water system. This reservoir will have a holding capacity of 2,500,000 gallons. This is to be fed by the flume from "Gibson Jack" creek. One-half mile below this, the second reservoir will be constructed. It will hold 250,000 gallons of water, and will be 20 feet above the town. From this reservoir the main pipe for conveying water to the city will be laid. It is to be 10 inches in diameter and will have a pressure of 110 pounds to the square inch. The laterals are to be four and six inches in diameter. The contract for the flume is to be finished by the 25th of June. As soon as this is completed, a contract for another flume equally as large and as long will be let, which will tap a creek known as "Minnie," to convey water to the first reservoir. Thus, in all, there will be 10 miles of flume 15 by 16 inches. The water from these two streams will not only add much to the healthfulness of the town, but will furnish sufficient power for all purposes.

This project was in operation some time in January last, and indeed work on reservoirs was being prosecuted as fast as possible for that time of the year, until the Indian police stopped it and actually hauled all tools away, thus compelling men to cease work. This time, when they arose yesterday morning, they began the day by a violent quarrel and kept it up all day. In the evening they had a fight, and when neighbors broke in they found the woman dead. The shotgun of the husband lay beside her. In both hands she held a keen-edged table knife, showing that she had vigorously defended herself. The police began to hunt for Smith. They did not have to look far. About 50 feet from the house they found his mangled body on the railroad track. It had been run over.

Work on the Puritan.

PHILIPSBURG, May 15.—The gentlemen who purchased the Puritan mine the other day, have employed John Hird, a competent and well-known miner, to take charge of contemplated work at the mine. It is said that heavy machinery is on the way here and everything will be ready to place it in position and commence work as soon as it arrives. A new shaft will in all probability be sunk, and it won't be long until this new enterprise will be well under way and it is hoped, and not without good reason, that the venture will prove successful.

Another Dynamite Explosion.

PARIS, May 14.—A bomb and a quantity of explosive were placed on the window sill in the office connecting with the camp of the grand mines at Alby, in the department of Tarn. The explosion which followed was terrific and the building was blown to atoms and the furniture of the office destroyed. The affair caused the greatest excitement and it was feared a number of people were injured. Upon investigation, however, it was found no one was hurt. No clue to the perpetrators of the outrage.

A THIRD PARTY SPEECH

Ralph Beaumont Talks to the Good People of Butte.

ABOUT OUR WORKING FOLK

Concentration of Capital and the Effects on the Prosperity of the People—Land Grants.

BUTTE, May 15.—Ralph Beaumont, the third party advocate, spoke to-night at the opera house and took for his subject the "Platform and Principles of the People's Party." He began his address by saying that many people were opposed to the principles of the party he represented because it was full of revolutionary, communistic and fraternal ideas. Others, he said, thought all the agitation useless and ill-timed, because the working people were now better paid than ever and consequently better off. While this might be so the question was whether they were as well off as they ought to be. The truth was that wages at present were poorer than they had ever been, because of the fact that the purchasing power of money was less now than it had ever been. By citing the greater number of millionaires that now existed than existed a generation ago, the speaker illustrated the greater disadvantages a young man starting in life now had to contend with than the young men of a few generations ago, because at the present time so much of the country's money was controlled by a few men. With an increase in millionaires followed an increase in the number of poor people.

The speaker paid his respects to the corporations and said the country was a corporation ridden land. Not satisfied with the immense power they already have, corporations were securing special legislation increasing their power continually. The principles and growth of the people's party and its effect upon the legislation of the land came in for their share and were explained at length, as were also some of the results accomplished by the party. The party's position on the land question was explained and the speaker said that it was of more importance than the tariff on kindred subjects. The subject of land suggested the companion subject, land grants to railroads, and the speaker gave an interesting history of the Union Pacific grants and the famous "Credit Mobilier." Free coinage was mentioned and the party's position on that question defined. From beginning to end the lecturer was brilliant, sparkling and contained many hard seasons for both of the dominating parties.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

And Then Deliberately Threw Himself Before an Engine.

CANABIE, L. I., May 15.—After shooting and killing his wife Abel Smith, a laborer, walked to the road in front of his house, threw himself before a train and was instantly killed. They were married about a year ago and had quarreled. He was insanely jealous of her. When they arose yesterday morning they began the day by a violent quarrel and kept it up all day. In the evening they had a fight, and when neighbors broke in they found the woman dead. The shotgun of the husband lay beside her. In both hands she held a keen-edged table knife, showing that she had vigorously defended herself. The police began to hunt for Smith. They did not have to look far. About 50 feet from the house they found his mangled body on the railroad track. It had been run over.

If you are subjected to the disagreeable necessity of taking medicine, you should at least be certain that your prescription is filled intelligently, skillfully and conscientiously. In absence of such an assurance as this, the well directed efforts of the most capable physician may easily be neutralized to say nothing of the possibility of more serious consequences. The care that is exercised in our prescription department is never relaxed under any circumstances. Only such ingredients as are perfect in their purity are utilized, such ingredients as insure the best possible results. We have an especially well equipped stock of Selen Palmer's perfumes and toilet waters, etc.
